

Gradbach Chapel

Here, I find a sense of space in which to move,
and yet be still; to grow,
and to become small;
to sing and also to be quiet;
to dance with you all,
and then, to be alone.

I find time ...
time to look within myself,
and time to gaze out,
beyond my own, transient boundaries,
to where I really am.

Here, with each breath that we take,
we are imbued with an old peacefulness that has been used many times before us, but which can never be used up.

All that is around us is patient;
it waits for what it knows will come.

Steve